Dear Mr. Fitzwater:

Your letter of July 27, 1983, regarding your concern over the use of the Central Intelligence Agency trademark in the Yellow Pages was referred to this office for response.

I do want you to know that Mountain Bell shares your concern and we do want to publish directories that are accurate and reliable, as well as beneficial to the advertiser. However, we publish a large number of directories in which there are hundreds of thousands of listings and advertisements representing nearly every type of business. Under these circumstances, you can appreciate the practical impossibility of Mountain Bell determining prior to publication, the right of each subscriber or advertiser to the use of any particular listing, name or logo.

In this connection, our advertising contract contains a special clause which states that the signer of the contract is authorized to use the specific trademark or trade name where authorization may be implied in the listing or advertisement.

Upon notification by the owner of a trademark or trade name that an advertiser has not been authorized to use the same, and upon receipt of a copy of a letter from the owner of the trademark or trade name to the advertiser using the trademark or trade name, advising him of legal infringement, our sales people will make an attempt to have the advertiser remove the trade name or logo from the next directory issue. Should the advertiser refuse, however, Mountain Bell will not alter or withdraw the advertising in question unless authorized to do so by the advertiser, or a signed agreement of parties, or acting pursuant to court order.

Please note that the closing date for contracting for Yellow Pages advertising in the next Phoenix directory is October 19, 1984. For various reasons, Mountain Bell salespeople may not solicit advertising from a particular customer for the next issue directory until just prior to the directory closing date. Hence, Mountain Bell may not know the intent of the party you claim is infringing on your trade name until that time. Furthermore, given the thousands of advertising accounts which must be processed into final form at the directory close and sent to the publisher, Mountain Bell cannot assure that requests for Yellow Page changes made after the closing date will be processed in time for the coming directory. Therefore, in order that you be assured that this matter will be resolved to your satisfaction, you should provide Mountain Bell, prior to directory closing date, with a signed agreement, or a court order which Mountain Bell may honor regardless of the advertiser's intent.

Should you have any questions regarding Mountain Bell's practices as set forth above, please let me know.

Yours truly,

Consumer Affairs
